Description

When Janet and John reached the top of Mt Kilimanjaro, they took a piece of rock to remember the event. After they got home, they knew their life and household would not keep such a memento intact for long.

They contacted us to preserve their memory within a Lucite embedment which included their stone permanently available for their enjoyment.

We embedded the stone within the Lucite and added a base. While there is plenty of space for text and pictures, they chose a simple inscription. We can place just about anything in Lucite to preserve and display. Ask our creative team for ideas about your next project.
